

This year's London International Investigations & Asset Recovery Conference will take place on 18-21 November 2024.

London International Investigations & Asset Recovery Conference (LIARC) aims to spotlight London as a leading centre for global investigations and asset recovery, bringing professionals together from diverse organisations in London and beyond.

Jeremy Snead and Anna Snead, who are both members of Ogier's cross-jurisdictional Dispute Resolution team and LIARC steering committee members, will present the session "From Investigations to Recoveries: Unpicking asset recovery strategies in a multi-jurisdictional fraud" alongside Mayer Brown and Three Verulam Buildings on Wednesday 20 November from 17:30 to 20:30.

During the session, the panellists will provide an overview of the practical and strategic considerations at play at the outset of a fraud case and consider issues that commonly arise in cross-border recoveries. Last year, our intrepid investigators uncovered an investment swindle perpetrated against the citizens of London which led to assets being uncovered in the Cayman Islands. This year, our English and offshore litigators collaborate with Leading Counsel to explore the options available to turn the outcome of those investigations into actual recoveries for investors.

Jeremy Snead and Anna Snead are delighted to be part of the LIARC steering committee so would be happy to discuss further if you would like to connect using their contact details.

Visit the LIARC website for more information on the conference and to see the full calendar of free events across the city hosted by pre-eminent experts in navigating complex problems involving wrongdoing, misconduct, fraud, investigation and asset recovery.
