

Double award win at Citywealth Future Leaders Awards 2024

News - 14/11/2024

Catherine Moore and Gregory Haddow from Ogier's cross-jurisdictional Private Wealth team have been recognised at the Citywealth Future Leaders Awards 2024 held in London this week.

Gregory won the bronze award for the Lawyer of the Year IFC - Associate category.

Based in the Cayman Islands, Gregory specialises in succession planning and structuring through trusts and foundation companies for high net worth individuals, trust companies and family offices. Gregory is also a member of the STEP Cayman Next Gen Committee, acting as secretary.

Anthony Partridge, Private Wealth partner in the Cayman Islands and the chair of STEP Cayman, said: "Greg is a rising star within the Ogier Private Wealth team, embodying the firm's client-centric approach. It's a delight to work alongside Greg and to see him receive this recognition. I am looking forward to watching him progress further."

Catherine won the gold award for the Lawyer of the Year IFC - Partner category.

Based in Ogier's Guernsey office, Catherine advises on a range of private wealth structures, working closely with fiduciary service providers, intermediaries and high net worth individuals. She also assists on advisory, semi-contentious and contentious matters and has significant experience with large, bespoke restructurings.

Global head of Private Wealth, Matt Guthrie said: "Congratulations to Catherine and Greg on their award wins. It's fantastic to see their hard work, dedication, and contribution to both clients and colleagues recognised. Catherine has fast become a go-to partner in Ogier's Guernsey team. Her care and attention to detail combined with her expert knowledge put her in a class of her own."
