Ogier advises Ophir Energy plc in placing and rights issue

Deals - 15/04/2013

Ogier advised Ophir on all Jersey aspects of the placing and rights issue through the use of a Jersey cash box company. Ogier Corporate Services formed the Jersey company and provide ongoing administration services.

Paul Burton, Managing Associate at Ogier in Jersey said: "We are delighted to have advised Ophir on their recent equity raise, having acted for the company in 2012 on a previous deal of this type. The dual purpose (placing and rights issue) of the Jersey cash box here demonstrates the flexibility of a vehicle which is able to meet PLC secondary fundraising requirements in a tailored way. The ability to provide both Jersey legal input and corporate administration support to clients is key in these types of transactions."

Significantly, the combination of the placing and the rights issue as back-to-back transactions provided the adaptability which Ophir required. The Jersey structure enabled existing qualifying shareholders to subscribe for new ordinary shares in the rights issue (on a pre-emptive basis), whilst also being able to satisfy the significant demand from new investors to subscribe for placing shares and then participate in the rights issue.

Ogier have advised on more cash boxes than any other firm and have the experience and expertise to assist PLCs with any equity raise or other structuring requirements. Cash boxes have been used by not just PLCs listed on the Main List of the London Stock Exchange but also by AIM listed companies.

The Ogier Jersey legal team was led by corporate partner, Marc Yates who was supported by Paul

Burton, Sean Inggs and Laura Hendrick. The team worked alongside members of Linklaters in London.
