

Two of Ogier's rising stars recognised in top 35 list for UK and Crown Dependencies

News - 12/09/2018

Two of Ogier's rising stars have been named in the eprivateclient list recognising the top young professionals in the private wealth sector across the UK and the Crown Dependencies.

James Angus and Alice Bricogne have made the prestigious Top 35 Under 35, which was whittled down from more than 500 submission from 85 firms.

James, an Advocate specialising in trusts disputes in Ogier's Jersey Dispute Resolution team, and Alice, a Barrister specialising in contentious and non-contentious matters in the firm's Guernsey trusts team, were also included in the Channel Island lists earlier this year.

Trusts partner James Campbell said: "We are all very pleased at the recognition for James and Alice, who are key members of our Jersey and Guernsey teams.

"We have an excellent team of talented and dedicated practitioners spanning both the contentious and non-contentious aspects of private client and trusts work, and James and Alice continue to develop very strong reputations, with feedback for both highlighting their excellent approach to client service."

James is a disputes lawyer with a practice focused on fiduciary law and trusts disputes - he is a senior associate in the Jersey Dispute Resolution team and is admitted in England & Wales, Jersey and Cayman.

Alice advises both corporates and individuals on all matters relating to trusts and foundations in both contentious and non-contentious contexts. She is an English Barrister and a senior associate in the Guernsey Private Client & Trusts team.
