

Recognition for 11 of Ogier's Cayman partners from Chambers Global

News - 21/02/2019

Eleven of Ogier's Cayman partners have been recognised in the latest Chambers Global directory which has highlighted the firm's "extremely responsive" client service across its Corporate, Dispute Resolution, Finance and Funds teams.

Partners James Bergstrom, Angus Davison, James Heinicke, Joanne Huckle, Marc Kish, Bradley Kruger, Rachael Reynolds, Nick Rogers, Mark Santangeli and Giorgio Subiotto are all recognised as "notable practitioners", as are counsel William Jones, and consultant James Bagnall.

Client feedback described the Cayman funds team as being "extremely knowledgeable and responsive", while another client who deals with the banking team praised it for "great performance, both technically and in client support".

Chambers Global undertakes thorough research and analysis of local law firms and seeks extensive client and industry feedback to determine their results - the latest set of results has seen partners Rachael Reynolds, Nick Rogers and Mark Santangeli promoted up the ranks.

Practice partner James Bergstrom - praised in feedback cited by Chambers for his "excellent knowledge" and as a "top-rate lawyer" - said that the verdict on the team reflected the dedication and talent of the firm's Cayman office.

He said: "To have maintained and developed our culture of excellent client service during a period of growth that has seen not just lateral hires but also promotions to the partnership is a testament to the value that Ogier puts on client care and responsiveness.

"Recognition for each of our banking, corporate, dispute resolution and funds partners demonstrates the reputations of our key practitioners and also the very strong team of associates in our office."
