Following our successful webinar in May, join us virtually for the second instalment of Guernsey Funds Forum from 2-4 November. We will be hosting a series of webinars where we will be joined by market leaders discussing the investment market landscape and why Guernsey remains a sanctuary for many.

2020 will be remembered for the Covid-19 pandemic, demand for social-economic reform and raising global tensions leading to geopolitical unrest. Against this backdrop, we ask a panel of leading market practitioners whether 2020 will change capitalism as we know it, or if it is more of a noise and distraction in a 'western' context.

We will also discuss the implications for the global fund community and the investment landscape, including issues like managing investor activism and how managers can demonstrate resilience.

Guernsey has the infrastructure to tackle issues around sustainability and proven resilience, as evidence through the island's handling of the Covid crisis.

This session will be moderated by Miles Celic, Chief Executive of TheCityUK.
